

Sunday, April 23, 1:00 pm, Pickering Creek Wildflower Walk

Sunday, April 23, we will take a walk along the Pickering Creek to see what the earth has done for us.

We'll meet at 1:00 at the Charlestown Woolen Mill, on the West side of Charlestown Road, where the road crosses Pickering Creek. The mill will be open and someone will be there to guide us and answer our questions. Then, about 1:30, we will cross the street to see what wild flowers are blooming. It's different every year, depending on the weather. We will wander and identify as many flowers as we can, until about 3:00.

Saturday, May 20, 10:00 am, McDevitt Trail

Meet at the Longwood School, Valley Hill and Bodine Roads. We may identify a few plants along the way, but this will just be a walk in the woods. Bring the kids along. The trail is blazed, and a good place for them to learn to follow a trail. We will let them lead us. This is a short trail, so we expect to finish before noon.
